

INTERNSHIP POSITION OFFER

The Dipendra Kandel Initiative advocates evidence-based policy research and development in Nepal, and globally. We collaborate with government agencies, educational institutions, and international partners to tackle major challenges, promote sustainable development, and ensure fair and free elections.

We are looking for self-motivated interns, undergraduates and postgraduates in political sciences, public policy, and sociology from throughout the world to assist us.

Selected candidates will observe, appraise, and collect data on upcoming elections, to produce reports. Our primary emphasis for the future months is the elections in:

- Mauritania (June 22nd)
- Rwanda (July 15th)
- Venezuela (July 28th)
- Algeria (September 7th)

The Dipendra Kandel Initiative is dedicated to demonstrating the impact of electronic voting on democracies, emphasizing how free and fair elections influence the heart of a political system. We also attempt to highlight how the rights to participate in public affairs, to vote and to stand for elections implemented in the countries listed above.

We seek for students with:

- Strong research and analytical skills,
- The ability to collect, organize and interpret data,
- The capacity to work independently and cooperatively in a fast-paced environment,
- A proficiency with Microsoft Office Suite and research tools,
- Excellent English communication abilities, both written and verbal.

This internship must be part of an academic curriculum, and might last between 2 to 6 months, depending on your level of study and the requirements of the university.

The internship will be held both remotely and on-site throughout the election period observed.

Interested candidates should submit a resume and cover letter to: soline@dk-initiative.org
